

There are 3 ways you can earn points back in the United States History course.

First thing I want you to is resubmit any portfolios an/dor discussions assignments that fell below a 60%. You can also do the short essays found in your quizzes or tests, just send me your response through Webmail. I will update your grade once I receive it in my WebMail.

If you want to completely retake the whole assessment again (quiz or test), I need to see your completed study guide FIRST. After you send it to me, I will reset the assessment and you will get another chance to retake it.

---

The other way to earn points back is by completing the assessment corrections template. Maybe you just need a few more points added in to pass the quiz or test...or maybe you just need a few more points to get your score to an A or B. Complete the assessment corrections template, send it to me through WebMail, and if correct, I will add the point(s) back in.

Here are the resource(s) mentioned in the video-

Sorry, I got caught off at the end of the video. But just WebMail me your saved Pdf. Click on 'Add Attachment' in your WebMail, upload the PDF, then send it to me.

All you need is a Gmail email address to open. You will need a personal Gmail since GLLA no longer has student gmail accounts.

☀ My suggestion going forward is to do the study guides before you take a quiz, test, or final exam. You CAN take the study guides/notes with you while you take the assessment.
